

Life in the Holy Trinity Today Holy Mother Church celebrates Trinity Sunday, the core mystery of our Christian faith, that God is three and God is one. God is three--a community of persons, not an isolated individual huddled over a little glowing screen (!). But God is also one--the first principal and final end to all of reality, the one absolute truth beyond all the changes, distractions, and dissipations of earthly life. Our task in this life is to focus all our hope and energy on entering into eternal life with the Holy Trinity, the inner life of absolute love between Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. The evil one scatters, dissipates, and confuses, but each of us, strengthened by our supportive communities (family, parish, and circles of friends), must cut through these distractions to reach heaven. Come, O Holy Spirit, take us home!

Praying for Our Dead As there are three persons in one God, so there are three parts to the Church: those in heaven, those in purgatory, and those on earth (the Church triumphant, suffering, and militant). We belong (at the moment) to the Church Militant, valiently fighting to defend our faith. But we cannot forget those in purgatory, in which we assume (to be safe) all our beloved dead (if not canonized by the Church) are suffering a fierce purification. Last Monday our church was full of people praying for the dead. It was the 9th Day of my father's death, and I offered a memorial Mass for his soul. I was touched by how many attended, and I realized that everyone that night was also mourning the death of someone close to them. I looked around and said to myself, "she lost her husband last year; they lost their brother a few months ago; she lost her mother in 2021; he went back to France to bury his father 6 months ago; etc." Requiem aeternam dona eis, Domine, our lovely choir sang. "O Lord, grant them eternal rest." After Monday's requiem Mass, most folks stayed in the church to pray the rosary, filling the church with Ave's and Pater's. Our voices swelled up from pleading and grateful hearts, filling each of us with hope. At every funeral Mass we pray for all the faithful departed, anticipating our own death, hoping that angels will lead us to heaven from the very spot where we will have breathed our last (for my father, John Peter, that was in a nursing home in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania). The last words of the choir, as we recessed, were the same words I heard as I bore my father's body to his grave last Saturday: In paradisum deducant te angeli. "May angels lead you to paradise...." We grieve, but we hope. We "expect," and we await, in the words of the Creed, the resurrectio mortuorum. The final word on human existence is Resurrection. He will raise up those who trust in Him, to live eternally within the Great Communion of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

The Sacred Heart We have said a fond farewell to Our Lady's Month of May, and we have entered the glorious Month of the Sacred Heart. Fr. Michael will offer a sung Mass on June 16 at 6pm, the Feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus. But first we will offer a sung Mass of Corpus Christi on June 8 at 6pm, with a Eucharistic procession through the streets after Mass. And don't miss the Archdiocesan Eucharistic Congress this Saturday at the cathedral (see page eight on how to register).

School Graduation And finally, our school will graduate its 112th class of 8th graders this Friday at 9am (our students put on a heartwarming year-end concert last Thursday). Thank you teachers, and congratulations students and parents! Fr. Joseph

By Fr. Joseph Illo (Ex 34: 4b-6, 8-9; 2 Cor 13: 11-13; Gospel Jn 3: 16-18) Holy Trinity "God so loved the world...."
 These are the words for Trinity Sunday from the famous verse John 3:16. God loved us. He loves us now, and He wants us to spend eternity with Him. So He sent his Son to rescue us, and his Spirit to guide us. Look forward to heaven, dear people!

Stella Maris Academy

Dear Star Families,

On Tuesday, May 30th, I experienced what it was like to be a principal. The day started off with morning assembly. Each day we recite the Morning Offering, the Angelus, the Pledge of Allegiance, and a morning hymn. After assembly, Dr. Colvert and I went to the office to write our schedule. Our first task was to make a permission slip for the seventh and eighth graders and to check with Mr. Carey about the lesson of baseball and philosophy. Then we had a principal pastor meeting with Fr. Illo about scheduling Masses and events. Next, we taught seventh grade math. And at 11:15, we had a talk about baseball and ethics with the seventh and eighth graders. At 12:00 p.m. I had lunch with a friend and handed out ice cream as a special treat. It was hard dealing with complaints and learning how to say no even if others disagree. A principal is the leader of the school and as leader of the school you are there to help your students succeed.

Sincerely,

Principal For-A-Day Natalie Arriola

The Cottrell Family

As Star of the Sea Church parishioners, we are all so blessed to be a part of Stella Maris Academy.

Stella Maris Academy is a joyful, one-of-a-kind Catholic Classical School. Our two children, John and Ava, are thriving spiritually, academically, and socially.

It brings our family great joy to hear them sing prayer songs at home and in the car. Many of them they've learned from Stella Maris Academy's excellent music program. With a newfound love for prayer and school Masses, John and Ava desire to grow more in our Catholic faith.

Academically, our children are flourishing at Stella Maris Academy. Recently, John won first place for the second-grade category of the Archdiocese of San Francisco Respect Life Essay Contest. He is also above benchmark on his STAR Testing for second grade, and he cannot wait to join the "big kids" in the third-grade next year. Like her brother, Ava is very excited to start kindergarten next school year. Her literacy and numeracy are outstanding because of the Stella Maris Preschool education she receives. The preschool has a Classical and Montessori-inspired curriculum that has allowed Ava to blossom and grow.

Of course, our children would not be where they are today without the school community. The students, dedicated teachers, close-knit parent community, and overall parish support make Stella Maris Academy a marvelous school. Our family is blessed and grateful to be a part of something so extraordinary.

Sincerely in Christ,

Kevin and Maria Cottrell

Meet Mary Sorenson, Stella Maris Academy Teacher

Mary has been working with children for many years as a camp counselor and swim instructor. She has her bachelor's degree of liberal arts from Thomas Aquinas College and is in the process of achieving her teaching credential from the Institute for Catholic Liberal Education.

A part of our community since May 2022, she has the opportunity to interact with almost every level of the school. While assisting in the preschool, she returns to the main school building to teach 6th grade math, 3rd/4th and 7th/8th grade science, and assist with 5th grade literature and poetry. In her science classes, she guides the children to reach an understanding of our world through the belief in our Creator. Their recent discoveries have included observation of earthworm behavior as well as conducting dissections with older students on sheep hearts to gain a better understanding of the structure and workings of our own heart. "Whether we are finding living ecosystems in the church garden or observing the contrasting structures of blood and bacteria under a microscope, our studies of God's creation bring us closer to Him. One of the most remarkable things I have witnessed in our students is their desire to learn not just because it is what they are told to do, but because they are in awe of the beauty and order that can be found in the creation of our world."

Miss Sorenson with two of our preschoolers

Students discovered that sound travels through the air by making vibrations. What would happen if you screamed in outer space? Absolutely nothing.

In the science lab, seventh and eighth grade biology students investigated the effects of the saliva enzyme "amylase", as it broke down cooked rice.

After a discussion on God's great design in the harmony of nature, fourth grade students explored how worms help decompose decaying matter.
